Quick Quotes

Q. Joined now by Hyo Joon Jang. Just after your fifth round her at Q-Series, what's the mindset? How are you physically, mentally?

HYO JOON JANG: It's definitely like feeling very marathon and I'm really happy it's only one day left.

But today was little tough to finish strong because I had really good putting and shots on the front nine, but the back nine I struggled little.

So was keeping up with it.

Q. What does it say about your ability? You did have the double on 12, but then to overcome that and finish strong with a birdie on 18, what does that say about your mindset about being here?

HYO JOON JANG: It's more like, you know, bounce back. It's new day, new opportunity, new hole that's coming. I still have tomorrow so I can't just give up about it.

Also my caddie really help out to move on it, so I think that really helped.

Q. Last one: You're in prime position to re-earn your card after your rookie season last year. What's the nerve level, mindset heading into tomorrow?

HYO JOON JANG: Definitely nerves levels are pretty high, but I'm just going to avoid the external stuff and just more focusing on myself, and that's going to be my plan tonight.
