Q. Nice way to follow up your 65 yesterday. Overall what it did yesterday do to help propel you today as well?

SOO BIN JOO: Yeah, yesterday I was really focusing on my tempo and the course strategy that it would be a long week. So I was really focusing on what I had to do, not chasing my scores. Focusing on my, yeah, tempo and everything. So that helped me a lot.

Q. What do you think clicked yesterday to put together this 65?

SOO BIN JOO: I think course management was pretty good. I wasn't chasing the pin. I was on the right spots on every single hole. That made my golf felt easier, especially at Q-School. I like that part.

Q. How have you been able to put aside maybe some of the pressure that comes with Q-School and how did the 65 help with that?

SOO BIN JOO: I think actually put more pressure on me because, I mean, it means that I'm playing well. Everyone is like texting me after the 65 so I got more pressure.

I'm trying to enjoy that moment because pressure is like a privilege, so, yeah, trying to have fun.

Q. Having fun here in Alabama, overall just what was today like for you and what do you think worked well for you in your game?

SOO BIN JOO: Today, yeah, I really didn't think about that. Yeah, today as well my course management was good. I was not trying to be too hyped. Try to focus on every single shot, and yeah, that clicked.

Q. One day left obviously. We have incoming rain tomorrow and incoming weather. How do you focus on being just one shot at a time?

SOO BIN JOO: I don't know, just focus on my routine, like
