Q. Atthaya Thitikul, 10-under par 62. Made even more remarkable by the fact that you parred three of the four par-5s. The course played tougher on day two than day one. Starting out today did you feel it was going to be a little bit more gettable again?

ATTHAYA THITIKUL: I mean, like, you know, had a really good round today; also had a really good ball striking today, too.

But I think the pin's kind of easier than yesterday. That's why we can make more -- we had more chance to make a birdie.

But overall it was good. Hopefully tomorrow it's going to be like this.

Q. This is your sixth round this season of 65 or less. Certainly seem like you have an attitude of when you're going low you just keep the foot on the gas.

ATTHAYA THITIKUL: Yeah, I just keep, you know, I just keep like -- I don't want to think about the result that much. I mean, like I'm not evening thinking that, oh, I want to go out and then shot lower than 65 or something like that. I trying to keep everything smooth as I can.

So, yeah, just keep the game going.

Q. You won twice in Thailand on the Ladies European Tour. How much are you enjoying being back here in Asia playing on the LPGA Tour?

ATTHAYA THITIKUL: I love playing in Asia. Feel like home always, even Malaysia, Singapore, or wherever in Asia. Always feel like home pretty much.

So, yeah, the food is good, people is good. That's why I love playing in Asia.
