Quick Quotes

Q. You're back in Tahoe. How is your game? Do you have any predictions for the week?

TREVOR LAWRENCE: No predictions. My game is better than it was last year, but still pretty inconsistent. So I think I'm going to definitely play better than last year, but we'll see.

Q. So much of the American Century is about family. You really embody that. I saw you yesterday on the driving range with your little daughter. How is it being a girl dad, and how awesome is it to spend her first couple of vacations here in Lake Tahoe?

TREVOR LAWRENCE: It's awesome. Just seeing, obviously, how fast she grows up and looking at the pictures from here last year, this being something we do every summer, seeing how much she's grown and having her run around.

Everyone is family. Just getting that time with her. So trying to obviously do this great event but include my family, it's such a good family event.

Q. I'm sure you might have heard. There was a pretty big wedding the last week. Something that goes under the radar is your proposal at Memorial Stadium during COVID. Where does that rank on the most nervous moments of your life and best moments of your life?

TREVOR LAWRENCE: Up there on the best and up there on the most nervous, for sure.
