CHAMPIONSHIP

>> Flirted with it indeed, but it ends up being a 60 what's going through your mind and body as you're standing over that putt for a sub 60 round on the PGA tour, Bryson.

>> I think it's trying to hit your line I misread the putt so one of those things that it was an awesome opportunity. I had a couple shots, a couple birdie opportunities at 17 and 18, and didn't happen but still really proud of the way I handled myself, and it's great to feel some pressure again which is awesome.

>> You talked about feeling the pressure, when we were walking to the microphone, you were saying that was a lot of fun to be in the mix like that and it's only a Friday as you're making your way around, how aware are you of what's exactly taking place

>> I knew all day if I continued to hit fairways and greens, I could give myself a really good chance to shoot. I didn't know I could get it to 12, possibly 13 under that was certainly the goal I was saying on the fairway, one more, come on. I hit a great shot just misread the putt.

I'll look back on this round and gain a lot of momentum from today.

>> How do you balance the excitement of shooting a 60 with the disappointment of knowing that you had a really good chance at going just one step lower?

>> It's just one shot. So you know, plenty of holes out there like 10 if I make birdie there. There's plenty of holes where I could have made a birdie somewhere else not making it, I still executed a good putt just didn't break the way I wanted it to that's all I could ask for.

>> You put on a heck of a show. It was fun to watch.

>> Thanks, thanks.

>> Appreciate the time
