

Betfred British Masters hosted by Danny Willett

Thursday, May 5, 2022

Sutton, Coldfield, England

The Belfry

Ashun Wu

Quick Quotes

BETFRED

— BRITISH — MASTERS

Q. Bogey-free opening round 67 here at the Betfred British Masters. Talk us through the round today.

ASHUN WU: Yeah, I played very solid and my game is good. My putting is back, because I have a little bit of problem from last week. But I find some good feeling and come back. My putting is amazing today. So yeah, five birdies, no bogeys, happy.

Q. Since your victory early this season, the continuity in your game week-after-week has always been there or in contention. What is it you're working on at the moment and doing so well?

ASHUN WU: I work with my swing for a couple years already, so right now, I think I can handle my swing, it's very good, and I improve the distance for my driver, working very good, too. So making me play the course more easier than before, and then my putting was good, my mind was good, so be strong every week.

Q. Tell us about the course. Obviously it's probably playing a little bit differently to last year, what kind of scores can we expect to see because I think we're going to have some better weekend than we did last year.

ASHUN WU: Today, weather is perfect today. So I think the course condition is perfect, and the green was nice, too. So I was thinking last year the weather was difficult a little bit than this week. Hopefully we can have a good weather this week and play some nice game.

FastScripts by ASAP Sports