

Women's Amateur Asia-Pacific Championship

Quick Quotes

Thursday, 6 March 2025

Eunseo Choi

Women's Amateur
ASIA PACIFIC

Fastscripts by ASAP Sports...

Q. Eunseo, a great round today. Probably a bit of a tale of two nines for you as well. Back nine is great; front nine is a little quieter. How did you find your round?

EUNSEO CHOI: I found my round pretty enjoyable. All I tried to do was just get it in the hole, whether it was par, bogey, birdie. I just tried to get it in the hole, nothing crazy.

My putts were going in pretty well. My shots on the back nine, which is my front nine, was pretty good, so I was enjoying the round.

And then until my back nine, which is the front nine, everything was pretty stable, not too bad, and then a little hiccup on the way. I think it was pretty good, yeah.

Q. How is your form-wise going? After this round a lot of the girls were saying the greens obviously being so undulating are proving a bit of a challenge. How have you found them so far?

EUNSEO CHOI: Personally, I think I put myself in a good position so I never really had to deal with undulating greens, which is really nice. I like the greens here because I like the way they respond to the shots, the putts.

So I am feeling good.

Q. Some big news this morning. Women's Amateur Asia Pacific is moving to Royal Wellington next year. Did you pencil that into the calendar already?

EUNSEO CHOI: Regardless of what my coach says, I'm going there. That's my home country and I'm very excited to play Royal Wellington. I'm pretty excited for the tournament that I've really enjoyed playing to be hosted in my home country.

Q. Have you played that course before?

EUNSEO CHOI: Yes, I have, a couple times as a junior as well. So I really like it.

... when all is said, we're done.®