Q. This team over the last two games, the Clippers have scored 90 points in the paint. What do you have to do individually and collectively to create some more resistance as far as their paint scoring is concerned going forward here?

KRISTAPS PORZINGIS: Good question. We've got to look at the film, the rotations, how we're doing that. And they're really good at kicking the ball out when we're doubling and just moving it around the perimeter. And then we run them off the 3-point line and then they maybe drive, and there's a paint attack, and they're able to score in the paint.

So, it's a little bit how we can take some of those away. But overall we know we can do a better job on both ends and that was below what we can do in terms of shooting. But it's okay. On to the next one.
