Q. Angela, you know what it takes to win on foreign soil. What did you tell the team last night, and did you have any surprises for them to get them ready for today?

ANGELA STANFORD: No, you know, I today 'em, I've been talking about being tough and having grit, and the definition that have is preparation and belief. And we did that, we prepared. Now they have to believe in each other. So I think we're in a good place.

Q. When you look at your four pairings this morning, what was the philosophy there with the decisions?

ANGELA STANFORD: Well, I mean I feel like we've always been pretty strong in our approach play. So we tried to get our best ball strikers out there and let's see what happens.

Q. And what was the most difficult decision you had to make for this morning's foursomes?

ANGELA STANFORD: Well, Auston Kim kind of impressed us in the practice, so it was tough to kind of leave her out this morning. But she's here and she looks excited, so I think she's going to be fired up this afternoon.
