Quick Quotes

Q. Catching up here with about Jennifer Kupcho's husband, Jay Monahan. Just came off the golf course, caddieing in this major championship that his wife is now trying to win. How closely were you able to follow what your wife was doing out there today?

JAY MONAHAN: I was paying attention. I was thinking about it this morning, whether or not I was going to look, and it was too hard not to. I think I looked after hole No. 9 and then I had to look again after 16 just to hope that she was still in the same position she was when she started the day, if not better.

Q. She's credited a tip you gave her earlier this week for the outstanding putting that we've seen from her this week. What did you tell her?

JAY MONAHAN: It's actually something she's been working on for a little while now. It's just something that's stroke related. For a while her through stroke was getting a little too far on the side, and so I honestly just set up a drill for her to kind of try and work through that, get the stroke a little more straight back, all more straight through, and she's been doing such a good job working on it. It's nice to see it pay off.

Q. Jennifer just has a few holes left. What will you do now? Will you go inside and watch or head out to the course?

JAY MONAHAN: I definitely am going to go out and watch. I've got to do a couple other things real quick first, but I'll make it out there as fast as I can.
