Q. 63 yesterday and 4-under today. One bogey in two days. What is it about this golf course that you love so much?

CHANETTEE WANNASAEN: I really like this golf course like on the practice round because I play in the morning on Monday and the fairway is pretty soft and the green is pretty soft.

So it's pretty long golf course, but the final round is like it's not that bad because like it's pretty firm right now. Not that firm but it's like firmer.

Yeah, so it's really challenging. Yeah.

Q. So you've said to yourself -- well, you said yesterday after your round that you struggled a little bit after the AIG Women's Open. Then you spoke to a fellow player, Jan Meechai. What exactly did she say to you?

CHANETTEE WANNASAEN: She just give me a hint a little bit because I really cannot hit the ball. You know, like I'm like I lost a lot of confidence because I play golf with my confident. So I just want like I can hit the ball what I want, but like I know golf cannot be perfect, but I just want to be better. But that time it's like I cannot really hit the ball.

Q. Well you're clearly playing with some confidence. You've got Les on the bag, a very experienced caddie. How much are you going to rely on him over the weekend?

CHANETTEE WANNASAEN: Actually it's easy, because I work with Les and after that it's really easy to me because he always like get the number. I don't do anything. Just hit the club what he said.
