Quick Quotes

So Tom, tell us about the round today. How hard did the course play for you?

TOM KIM: No, it played really difficult. The wind was starting to blow, and the hardest part about Augusta National, it is not consistent. It changes all over the place. Playing Amen Corner was really, really difficult.

Hit a perfect 5-iron that is almost impossible to be short and I was ten yards short the hole and had to hit an 8-iron perfectly on the green.

Played difficult, especially the last holes coming in. Like on 17 I just couldn't hit the green. You know, it was left to right downwind, left to right, downwind, just going all over the place.

So played really tough, but I'm glad I'm playing the weekend.

Q. Your attitude for the next two days?

TOM KIM: No, I'm excited to be in the weekend. Hopefully I'm going to be first off tomorrow so hopefully I can just go out and post a good number and have late tee time on the weekend.
