Q. What did you think about the pin at No. 16? It was a little bit different than the non-traditional back left. It was an homage to the '75 Masters.

BYEONG HUN AN: I think it's tougher hole location, obviously. You're not going to see as many birdies as left. It was unusual for me. I've never seen the flag there. I always watch TV, just left, you see a lot of birdies. How the winner has been birdieing the 16th hole, I don't think that's going to happen today. It's a really tough hole.

But yeah, it's pretty hard, that flag. If you miss right, you're going to have a tough bunker shot. If you miss it left -- I had a great two-putt. Yeah, 50 years ago it would have been an easier pin than this year because of how firm and fast the greens are, but it's not like it's unplayable. It's definitely playable because we always had a flag there I think one of those days. Even last year we had a little shorter and right of it. It's just one of those flags, and it wasn't impossible to get pars. It was a good pin, but I was just surprised it wasn't like Saturday, Friday or Thursday.

Q. That's where Jack Nicklaus made his famous putt in '75.

BYEONG HUN AN: There you go. I wasn't there, but --

Q. It was way before your time.

BYEONG HUN AN: -- it was before my time. Yeah, I've seen the clip before.
