Quick Quotes

Q. Bryson, you didn't have your best golf today.

BRYSON DECHAMBEAU: Not at all. That was a little bit of a -- a little uncomfortable YouTube golf out there. That's what I felt like today.

Q. But you did have some small wins out there. I saw a lot of brilliance. In saying that, probably your biggest win is you finished your round today. Hit a lot of shots out of the rough. How's the body?

BRYSON DECHAMBEAU: It's struggling a bit unfortunately. The wrist is feeling better. I've had some shoulder stuff since, shoot, the Ryder Cup. I don't know what happened. It's been trained. It's been treated. We've worked on it. We've done a bunch of stuff, MRIs. It's all been fine. It's been eking at me for quite a while.

When I won those two events, I was waking up every day, uh-oh, is it going to hurt today? It's a little bit of overuse. I'm grinding to figure it out.

Today wasn't that bad. I didn't think it was too terrible. You saw me move my arm up a little bit today just trying to make sure it didn't give out.

I was proud of the way I fought out there not hitting it my best. I've got to go work on that. It's close. It's not that far off. It's just I've got to line some stuff up. I've been protecting a lot this arm, trying to not get it over too much. It is what it is.

Q. With the golf course being set up a little bit more similar conditions to next week, how important is it to play a golf course like this leading into a major, the second major of the season?

BRYSON DECHAMBEAU: It's one of the most important things, golf course setups and how they feel from week in to week out. If you're going from a golf course that's a little slower to super fast greens, it can be a little diabolical to figure it out.

It's nice to prep on a golf course that feels quite similar and will give us a good feel going into next week.
