TV Quick Quotes

Q. Talor, another consistent solid round of golf. You stick to your game plan no matter what. Is this the type of course that lends itself to your normal game plan?

TALOR GOOCH: These two days it has. I haven't played well the last couple times we've been here, so it's nice to come to a course that I feel like I should play well on and play well. Hopefully we can keep it going.

Q. Your success in golf has brought you some, shall we say, resources, and with those resources you've become owner of a bull riding team, a Bass Pro fishing team, an angling team, and now I'm assuming an equity stake in Smash GC. Does it change anything about your outlook when you approach the game?

TALOR GOOCH: Not really. I keep saying this; the rule is 67. I probably should have coined that differently a while back. But you go play good golf, and everything takes care of itself. All the things that I've been blessed with have obviously come from the man above, but it doesn't happen without shooting 67, 66. At the end of the day, birdies takes care of all that stuff. As long as I can continue to focus on that and make that the priority, I know all the other business stuff will take care of itself.

Q. Three wins to your credit out here on LIV. The oddity is none of them have been in the States. You could be the first to win a 72-hole event as well. Is that on your mind?

TALOR GOOCH: You look at the leaderboard every day out here, so seeing myself and our team up at the top of the leaderboard, you're thinking about winning immediately. You're not going to win it today or tomorrow; it's going to take four rounds. We've got to go put two more good rounds together to get that done.
