Quick Quotes

Q. How do you hold it together when you're 7-over through 6?

ADAM SCOTT: Well, yeah -- I don't know, I mean I think there's some experience and the fact I feel like I'm playing quite well and I've really gotten nothing out of my golf the last few weeks. If you give up you are definitely not going to get anything out of it, so I kind of stuck in there. Yesterday it was probably as good a result as I could have had after that start. Today wasn't that much better start. I was over early.

Q. Two bogeys.

ADAM SCOTT: Yeah, just trying to, you know, trying to give myself more holes to play so the good stuff can come through is how it feels. So I'm happy to kind of probably made the cut.

Q. How do you, if you're playing well and then you do have the start you had yesterday, are you trying to turn it around by playing better, somehow swinging better, doing better?

ADAM SCOTT: You can't force it at a place like this because you're just going to make more doubles and stuff, you know? And I, it wasn't even that bad a shot -- it wasn't that ugly, like I hit it in the water twice on 3 and 6, and I bogeyed 4 and, okay, 5 was probably the ugliest. I pushed a wedge into the green and I didn't get it up-and-down on a par-5. But the others were on line, they came up short, and then it came up short again on 12. Just that bit of wind around here, it's hard to judge well. And those pins yesterday were difficult. So I think a lot of people, we saw a lot of very funny scores.

Q. What are you at now on the majors? Have you hit a hundred?

ADAM SCOTT: No.

Q. Next year U.S. Open next year will be a hundred. I was going to ask about that.

ADAM SCOTT: I think this will be -- my 97th will be this one, but it's my 96th in a row, I believe. So if it's my 97th and what have we got? Two more, I mean it may be my 100th.

Q. The U.S. Open will be a hundred in a row.

ADAM SCOTT: Right.
