SCOTTISH OPEN

A Rolex Series Event

RORY McILROY: Well, I hit the ball really well tee-to-green. Gave myself a ton of looks. Honestly it felt like 4-under was probably the worst I could have shot out there. But you know, it swings in roundabouts. I held a couple of long ones yesterday to shoot a good score, and then missed a couple today, but overall, really pleased with how the last two days have went.

Q. It obvious to see you played some beautiful golf, maybe a few putts weren't dropping. When the conditions are so difficult, going out early tomorrow, what's your mindset?

RORY McILROY: Just, you know, take whatever the conditions and the golf course are going to give us.

You know, I don't really have any expectations. It would be silly of me to try to pick A potential target score to get to.

So really, just embrace the conditions and just sort of make the best of them. But you know, I know that I'm playing well enough tee-to-green to give myself some looks and hang in there, so I'm pretty confident going into the next two days no matter what the weather throws at us.
