Q. What a great round today, the highlight of course coming with a hole-in-one at the fourth. By the way, a hole that you birdied yesterday with that really difficult hole location; then aced it today. Talk us through that moment.

BRIANNA DO: Yeah, so I played yesterday morning and I was actually watching the coverage on Peacock, and I believe they showed Corey Pavin play the Senior PGA here and made a hole-in-one kind of exactly the same way. Like hit it on the front and rolled it into the hole.

And so, I mean, I was honestly just trying to hit the greens out here today. It was so windy. I just hit a nice little 7-iron. I knew it was good but I didn't know it was that good. But it was a nice little hole-in-one to kind of even out my rocky start.

Q. We're watching it just now. It almost spent longer on the ground than it did in the air. You read the green perfectly; then you nearly aced 13 as well. Your par-3 scoring is fantastic. 594th in the world right now. When you look at what is on offer this week and tomorrow, your position on this leaderboard, how much will you focus on what could be really a year, season-long changing day and week here at the KPMG Women's PGA Championship?

BRIANNA DO: I actually haven't really thought about it. I'm out here just trying to take it one shot at a time. It's playing really tough with the wind, setup and everything. I've had a few good weeks playing golf in Mexico, Colorado, Women's Open, so just feeding off that and trying to play my game and see what happens.
